Figure 1 consists of three bar charts arranged horizontally, each representing a different birth cohort: 1946 (left), 1954 (middle), and 1962 (right). The x-axis for all charts is 'Number of children' ranging from 0 to 10. The y-axis is 'Percentage of women' ranging from 0 to 100. The 1946 cohort shows a distribution peaking at 2 children (approximately 45%). The 1954 cohort also peaks at 2 children (approximately 40%). The 1962 cohort peaks at 2 children (approximately 35%) and shows a slightly higher percentage of women with 1 child compared to the earlier cohorts.
